

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

EAST ASIAN STUDIES CENTER

2022

THE INSTITUTE FOR KOREAN
STUDIES AND MERSHON
CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES PRESENT:

"NUCLEAR WEAPONS AND INSTABILITY ON THE KOREAN PENINSULA"

JEFFREY LEWIS

Professor at the Middlebury Institute of International Studies and Scholar at the James Martin Center for Nonproliferation Studies

Nuclear weapons have played an outsized role in shaping the security dynamics of the Korean Peninsula from the end of the Korean War to the present day. The security dynamic on the Korea peninsula is, once again, changing rapidly, this time as a conservative government in Seoul takes power and as Pyongyang resumes missile testing, then deployment of tactical nuclear weapons and prepares to conduct another nuclear explosion.

Free and open to the public

<https://easc.osu.edu/events/iks-lecture-jeffrey-lewis-nuclear-weapons-and-instability-korean-peninsula>

10
NOVEMBER

Thursday
11:10-12:30pm
Mendenhall 191

This event is sponsored by a U.S. Department of Education Title VI grant to
The Ohio State University East Asian Studies Center