Join Mike Bierschenk (Educational Technologist, Arts and Sciences Technology Services) and Ying Zhang (Assoc. Professor of History and ICS Director) for an introduction to teaching online courses within the College of Arts and Sciences. We will discuss the possibilities inherent in online teaching, as well as the difficulties, then Bierschenk will introduce a variety of ways that instructors translate their in-person teaching strategies and content into approaches that work in an online space without sacrificing student engagement and quality of teaching. Zhang, who is currently teaching online courses in the Dept. of History, will share her experiences working with the various support services available to instructors, as well as her experiences teaching students in an online environment.

Free and open to the public
