

COLUMBUS STATE COMMUNITY COLLEGE
HUMANITIES SYMPOSIUM SERIES

When East Meets West

Health and Healing Across Global Cultures

Friday, September 28, 2018 | 9:00AM – 3:00PM

The Longaberger Alumni House | The Ohio State University

Organized by CSCC Humanities Department

Co-sponsored by The Ohio State University

East Asian Studies Center | easc.osu.edu

Free and open to the public • Lunch included with registration

To register, visit humanities-symposium.eventbrite.com

Morning Session: Materia Medica

a feeling of if: Making Stories with Manchu Materia Medica

Dr. Carla Nappi - Mellon Professor of History, University of Pittsburgh

Herbal Knowledge East and West in the Ancient World

Dr. Maddalena Rumor - Visiting Assistant Professor

Case Western University

Afternoon Session: Colonialism & Public Health

Cholera and Colonialism: Intersections between Policy, Public Health and Medicine during the Sino-Japanese War (1894-1895)

Dr. Roberto Padilla - Associate Professor, University of Toledo

"Another Philippines Task": U.S. Imperial Health in Haiti, 1915-1934

Matthew Davidson - University of Miami

COLUMBUS STATE
COMMUNITY COLLEGE

For more information visit www.csccl.edu/academics/humanities-symposium

or email Jennifer Nardone at jnardone@csccl.edu

Teachers earn 7.5 CEUs for a $25 registration fee.

See the Humanities Symposium Series website for details:

www.csccl.edu/academics/humanities-symposium