

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

EAST ASIAN STUDIES CENTER

18
JANUARY

Friday
3:00-4:30 PM
Dulles Hall Room 168

2019 CENTER FOR HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND IKS JOINT LECTURE:

THE THREE REVOLUTIONS OF SYNGMAN RHEE

DAVID FIELDS

Associate Director, Center for East Asian Studies
University of Wisconsin-Madison

Despite spending forty years in the U.S. and earning degrees from Harvard and Princeton, Syngman Rhee returned to Korea not as an American miracle man, but as a Korean revolutionary hero who had struggled against the power structures of the traditional Korean state and the Japanese occupation. Join us for a discussion on his role as a revolutionary and what it can teach us about the Korean Independence Movement, the Division of Korea, and the Korean War.

Free and open to the public easc.osu.edu/events/iks/d-fields

This event is co-sponsored by the Department of History's Center for Historical Research and by a U.S. Department of Education Title VI grant to The Ohio State University East Asian Studies Center